This list carries as low prices as we have made in the 27 years that we have been in business in Tahlequah, Okla.

We are introducing this year a NEW PEAR to the public—although it is not so new to us.

In January, 1913, an old friend (Dr. N. B. Cotton of Bentonville, Ark.) sent me some scions of an especially good pear that grew from the seed in the corner of his garden, to propagate it for him.

I found that they grew spindling and would not stand alone in the nursery row the first year and made crooked, poor trees unless supported by staking. I sent the Doctor a bunch of the trees, sold a few, gave away some, and planted some in my orchard, made fun of the trees to the Doctor and he sent me this letter:

Bentonville, Ark., March 21, 1914.

Friend Ben: I want to give you a little advice. Don't sneeze at my pear trees, those you sent me were just dandies. I would not take $5.00 apiece for them. If you will plant a sample orchard of them, in a few years you cannot supply the demand for the trees. They will know enough in a year or two to straighten up and make nice trees.

Yours truly,

DR. N. B. COTTON.

In seven or eight years the trees that I had planted came very forcibly to my attention, and in 1922 and 1923 I tried them out again and again became disgusted because they were so much trouble while small. For the last three years they have borne good crops while all other pears have failed in this county. They bloom late with apples and not all at once, some blossoms on the trees after the first fruits have set. They do not blight to hurt, make pretty ornamental trees, more spreading than most pears, and sure know enough to stand up in the orchard.

I asked Professors Frank Cross, G. W. Cochran, D. C. Moreing, and F. M. Rolfs of the A. & M. College at Stillwater, Okla., to name the pear. After looking at the trees and fruit and talking to the growers they have very appropriately named it SURECROP.

I have a limited number of the trees 4 to 6 feet high, $1.00 each.

I will let my neighbors tell you what kind of a pear it really is:

R. F. D. No. 1, Tahlequah, Okla.,
Oct. 10, 1933.

Mr. Ben Davis: I have one tree of your Surecrop Pear 19 years old. I bought the farm three years ago. It has had good crop each year while other pears killed by late frost. Fifteen bushels this year. I find it does not blight, blooms late, has small core with no waste, good size, fair keeper and excellent quality.

Yours truly,

R. G. RUTHERFORD.

R. F. D. No. 2, Hulbert, Okla.,
Oct. 20, 1933.

Mr. Ben Davis: My Surecrop Pears I got of you 18 years ago have proved to be a sure crop. I have 100% living, haven't had a failure, they bring top prices on every market I have tried. I think that they are the best pear that grows.

Yours truly,

J. L. SULLIVAN.

Tahlequah, Okla., Oct. 24, 1933.

To Whom It May Concern: Some 10 years ago I bought of Mr. Ben Davis, Nurseryman and Fruit Grower of Tahlequah, Okla., a pear tree (Surecrop), set it out and since have watched its growth and development. It began bearing at three or four years old. Every year, as the tree grows larger, it bears more bountifully. It does not blight, the fruit is large, uniformly ripens, juicy and delicious.

Respectfully,

J. A. LAWRENCE.

Tahlequah, Okla., Oct. 24, 1933.

Mr. Ben Davis: I have watched your new pear, which has been named Surecrop, for the last four years. It has been my observation that this variety has not failed to make a good crop each year, has not blighted, blooms late, and has the best texture and flavor of any of the pears grown in this section. I am

Yours truly,

C. F. PARROTT, County Agent.

If you want your order mailed don't forget the postage. It is generally cheaper than Express on small orders. See back page.
